HELSINKI, Jan. 3.- (AP) The Finnish high command announced today a powerful Russian infantry attack on the Karelian isthmus had been repulsed "with heavy losses."

Russian fliers bombed Turku and Hanko today in their conish, centers, but it was anunced officially there were casualties in Turku and few casualties and little damage in Hanko. Both cities are in southwestern Finland.

The high command commuhique said the isthmus attack by the Russians occurred yesterday afternoon in the Taipale river zone after heavy artillery prepration. The defense repulsed the invaders, it said, with infantry and artillery fire.

Preliminary reports of county organizations from all over Georgia indicate the tremendous dining hall of the Ansley hotel, seating 700 persons, reserved for the Jackson Day dinner Monday night, will be filled to capacity, Major Clark Howell, state chairman of the dinner, said last night.

Unprecedented in the history of such affairs, reservations for more than half of the available seats already have been made, and the tickets delivered.

Seats Going Rapidly. Major Howell said that while there are plenty of seats left at the moment, they are going rapidly and Georgia Democrats will be wise to make their reservations and secure tickets in plenty of time. He was one of the official personnel attached to General Tas-ker H. Bliss at the Versailles conference which, in its own fashion washed up the first World War.

He was with Inspector-General James Brady Mitchell when that functionary inquired officially into the strange cutting in two at sea of the S. S. Otranto in one of the severest storms known to that familiar habitat of severe storms, the North Sea.

He was so badly gassed-and has the marks to show it-that he'll never be the same, but the only treatment he got from the army for the experience was a dose of cough medicine to soothe his seared lung surfaces.

"What happened, as it eventually was proved, was that the other vessel's steering gear broke," said Harbort. "The seas were running terribly high and the wind was blowing a gale. In some unfor-tunate way, this companion vessel was turned at right angle to its course and swept forward ir-resistibly toward the Otranto. Then he went home to 364 Elmyra place and read The Constitution, just as he has been doing for 55 years. In fact, when "Ole Joe" was "Young Joe" back in 1884 he earned his first dollar harvesting wheat in his Bartow county home. This dollar he used to subscribe to The Constitution.

The next 50 years, Mr. Brooksher says, will be spent smoking his pipe, going to baseball games and "doing nothing." But his 155 pounds of energy and vitality are going to require more expression than striking matches to his contact of the Dixie Limited, is the climax of a boyhood dream. "My father used to take me to town for supplies, but I wouldn't go down to the tracks. I'd look up there and see that engineer pull the rope and the bell would go ding-dong, ding-dong. I thought, if I had that job I'd have a back seat in heaven."

So on December 30, 1889, he took to firing on an engine. A few

"You know, Hell-Bent, I'm glad ou're up here to see this new building, because I know when ou get back to the courthouse own around Valdosta you're go-

The red-haired legislator responded with a loud laugh.

Road Needs Realized. Watson said "The Highway De partment long has realized the need for straightening the Lawrenceville road, and we hope to give it early attention." He added that he was not prepared to make any definite announcement about the project. The Lawrenceville road is continual series of curves. It is one of the oldest roads in the state, and until the recent opening of the new Athens highway via Monroe was one of the heaviest traveled roads in Georgia. Even now, by serving only local traffic to Lawrenceville and Winder, it still is widely used.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 4, 1940.

The President Speaks

As expected, the President's message to congress, delivered at joint session of house and senate yesterday, dealt more with world problems than with domestic issues. At the same time his views on strictly American affairs suffered no lack of emphasis and it would be difficult to misunderstand his pronouncements on national finances, defense, unemployment, taxes and other like subjects.

. He declared for a happy medium in necessary additions to the defensive strength of Army and Navy, saying that the requests to be made of congress for these arms of the service would be neither as large as some extreme alarmists expected nor as small as fanatics of opposite view might desire.

It was evident he intends to place the responsibility for any increase in the national deficit squarely upon congress itself. There will be marked reductions in all appropriations asked when the budget is submitted, he said, with the sole exception of the items for defense. He urged additional taxes to take care of this necessary increase, in order that the budget might at last be balanced and, if possible, the Congress is thus faced with the problem of accepting these reductions and thereby arousing the resentment of pork barrel lobbyists and professional "spending" boys-in an election year-or of adding to the national debt and going into the red for another year.

President Roosevelt was emphatic in his belief there is no reason for this country to join in Europe's wars in a military way, but at the same time he made clear this country and all its citizens are vitally concerned in the outcome of those wars. "There is a vast difference," he said, "between keeping out of war and pretending that this war is none of our business."

Looking forward to the day when discussion of peace will again be intelligently possible, the President took a controversial bull by the horns when he advocated an extension of the reciprocal trade treaties. This topic is expected to be a leading issue during the congress session, with Republicans and some Democrats seeking to curb Secretary of State Cordell Hull's policy of extending these international commercial agreements. The President, however, flatly declared that extension of this policy is "an indispensable part of the foundation of any stable and durable peace."

One of the highlights of his address came in a paragraph near the close. In this he expressed, clearly and unequivocally, the deep reason behind the necessity of a United States at peace, even though all the rest of the world blazes with war

"We must as a united people," he said, "keep ablaze on this continent the flames of human liberty, of reason, of democracy and of fair play as living things to be preserved for the better world that is to come."

In that paragraph is voiced the faith of the true liberal. For it stresses the need, in a world faced with ruthless dictators and their ambitions, of preserving the ideal of human liberty, the one tenet that has inspired democratic ideals and Christian faith throughout the

If, with calmness, tolerance and reasonable wisdom, this country can keep alive that faith in the dignity of free man, it will have proven the present salvation of a stricken world.

Planning Ahead

A significant step will be taken early in the spring by the United States Housing Authority and the City Planning Commission when a $30,000 co-operative survey will be started. The aim of the survey is to provide a planned development for the expansion of Atlanta. Special emphasis will be placed on such important factors as traffic improvements, opening of new traffic arteries and widening of present ones. The move is expected to relieve congestion in downtown Atlanta and to provide speedier ingress and egress.

The study will be the most comprehensive ever undertaken in this city. Plans call for a program which will provide for extension of central business and industrial areas; future plans for new dwelling house and apartment restrictions; development of community business centers, and new schools and parks in accordance with future population trends.

This survey is bound to have an important bearing on the future of the city. It is planned, intelligent and far-sighted. Its effect should be entirely advantageous to all elements of this community.

The Mayor's Message

Careful reading of the message by Mayor Hartsfield to city council reveals cause only for civic pride and community congratulation.

It is apparent that finances of Atlanta's municipal government are in excellent condition, with all current obligations paid and a balance of close to three quarters of a million on hand in the treasury. Funds for the retirement of bonded indebtedness when it matures have been set aside.

The financial benefit of solvency has been forcefully demonstrated during the past year. During that period not a penny of city funds has been paid out as interest on borrowed moneys. All bills have been met so promptly that a considerable sum in cash discounts has accrued to the city treasury.

Mayor Hartsfield and city council, heads of city departments and other officials are due the most sincere thanks of citizens for the manner in which they have conducted municipal affairs. Because of their efficient management the city is today in a most enviable condition and the credit of Atlanta stands in top rank among American municipalities.

There are other benefits, none the less tangible because impossible to compute in mathematics, which result from this condition. Among them may be listed the favorable publicity won for the city. Add this to the acclaim received through the handling here, during the past year, of the Baptist World Alliance and the "Gone With the Wind" premiere, and it is to be doubted if any single year has done more to add to the good repute of Atlanta in the eyes of the nation and of the world.

To cap the climax is the fact that 1939 saw successful culmination of efforts to restore to Atlanta the annual seasons of Metropolitan Grand Opera. The first of the resumed series will occur next April.

There are, it is admitted, many things that press for attention. A remarkable record in reduction of traffic fatalities does not mean that efforts for still further improvement in this item must not be pushed. Many of the streets are in sad need of repaving. Some of the fire department equipment is outmoded and must be replaced. There is vital need for new school plants and expansion of others.

The relief problem is still far from solution. However, with the city in the happy financial condition it now enjoys, and with reasonable belief it will so continue, there is no problem which cannot, ultimately, be solved.

The first duty of the administration, this or its successors, is to keep the city out of debt, solvent and efficient. With solvency constant, there is no logical limit to the betterments in service that can be achieved.

Rural Education

The announcement by Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, that he is mapping a vocational education program in grammar schools which will show farm boys a practical side of going to school comes as welcome news to all persons interested in the future and the welfare of this state.

The proposal is extremely worth while. In essence, it is to give boys and girls in grammar grades vocational projects on which to work rather than excess courses in English, history and mathematics. Dr. Collins, in announcing his plan, pointed out that under the present setup, vocational education, farming, cannot be taught in the rural schools until the student has reached high school. Thus there is no provision for the farm boys and girls who drop out after completing the fourth or fifth grades.

Dr. Collins makes the excellent point that the rural schools must train the boys and girls to make a living at the "things they know something about already." Georgia schools should also teach problems of the community and how to eliminate them, the superintendent

Dr. Collins' plan will be submitted at a conference of state school superintendents from nine southeastern states in Washington this month. The purpose of the conference is to devise a method of rural education that willcombine the Department of Agriculture's farm program with the school program. It will be one of the most important meetings of its kind in years and those who attend no doubt will bring the best of their thought and experience

LAW-MAKERS UPON US WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Congress is in town. Illiterate and learned, bumbling and clear-minded, hacks, nincompoops, pork-grabbers, honest men, wiseacres and statesmen, the law-makers are upon us, making more noise, more news, and more business for the regular inhabitants of the city. As usual, the question on most lips is: "What kind of session will it be?" The obvious first answer is extremely political, since this is a campaign year. But after that easy generality, there are specific issues to be dealt with, some of them of great import. It may be worth setting down, issue by issue, such forecasts as can be made at this time.

TRADE AGREEMENTS No. 1 bet to start a big row is renewal of the State Department's authority to go of the fact that, in the guise of make trade agreements. Secretary of State Cordell Hull is currently determined to make a hard fight. The lobbies are gathering against him, and the Republicans are joining hands with the lobby-Meanwhile, as the important trade agreements are already concluded, the President is considering referring the issue until after the election. His New Deal advisers and congressional leaders favor this policy, but if he adopts it he will have to dragoon Hull into acquiescence. He may not be able to.

OTHER FOREIGN PROBLEMS Each month of war will bring new developments, but, for the present, aid to Finland is the only aspect of administration policy requiring affirmative congressional action. The President already asked his leaders on the hill about canceling Finland's present debt to this country, and about making the Finns a substantial loan for armaments. He was advised not to attempt to cancel the debt, since it was thought that would set a precedent with regard to debts of other nations. Instead, he will probably press for suspension of interest payments. The armaments loan was more tentatively approved, but if further soundings bring no bad response from the senate, it will also be proposed.

FINANCES Cuts in the budget are extremely deep. As already explained here, this impales congress on the horns of a cruel dilemma. Either the law-makers can follow the President in campaign year stinginess, or they must raise additional revenue or raise the federal debt limit of $45,000,000,000. A middle course is most likely. Chairman Pat Harrison, of the senate finance committee, is dead set against both a war profits tax, which is the President's pet tax idea, and any debt-limit tinkering. Conservative Democrats and Republicans will probably unite to escape their dilemma by limiting extra appropriations to small token payments to the most politically powerful groups. The farmers will get the biggest share of the boodle.

REFORM Thumbs are down on great reforms this year. The President's scheme for building a few hospitals in re-gions where medical service is poor was his answer to the agitation big federal public health program. The New Dealers' drive for fat old age pensions stopped dead in its tracks when the war gave the President other things to think about. Pensions are now spoken of as a campaign issue. There is a possibility of a fight on the New Deal power policy, but even the most ardent New Dealers are attempting to work out a compromise in advance.

NATIONAL DEFENSE The national defense program will be largely of paper, but the appropriations demanded for it will be comparatively small. It takes some time to make guns and build battleships. In order to keep the budget looking pretty, the President has followed the system of pay-asrequesting only such appropriations as can be spent in the next fiscal year.

AGRICULTURE The farm problem, as usual, will boil down to how much cash the farmers can pry out of the federal treasury. As usual, there is a row about whether they are to get only $500,000,000 in soil conservation payments, or whether the kitty is to be sweetened by additional "parity" pay-The difference is that the farmers plant soil-improving crops for the first kind of payment, and take the second as an outright subsidy. The President, the Agriculture Department, the Treasury and the congressional leaders are currently in a muddle over whether to raise the parity payments by levying processing

GENERAL There is a strong movement to amend the labor act in favor of craft unionism and the employers. The President will probably counter by offering to change the pernonnel of the Labor Board. There are also movements to amend other New Deal enactments, to come out strongly for an early spring and a late fall, to remove all taxes and double all appropriations, and to take politics out of politics. These, and the antics of the presidential candidates, will fill in the chinks between larger issues.

Moe Annenberg, the millionaire racketeer, who is soon to go to trial in the federal court in Chicago, or plead guilty, according to his choice, in an embarrassing situation, branded himself by his own pleadings in court in 1934. Mr. Annenberg denies that he is a racketeer, and there has been some informal discussion in Washington and Chicaa Republican newspaper publisher in Philadelphia, where he fought the New Deal, he incurred the political displeasure of the Roosevelt administration. Mention is made of this by way of suggesting that he might be a victim of political persecution, but the fact remains that after a long and incredibly prosperous career in the underworld of sport and politics-namely, the illegal horse-room gambling racket, operating on a national scale-Mr. Annenberg now stands accused of withholding about $5,-

Mr. Annenberg admitted that he was in illegal business in a motion which his attorneys filed in the circuit court of Cook county, Ill., of which Chicago is the most part, on December 14, 1934. In that case he and others in the same racket had been sued by John J. Lynch, their partner, for an accounting and division of the profits of the General News Bureau, which furnished race results' and other information to gambling rooms.

In his reply, made by the noted chicago law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, Mr. Annenberg said:

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

REAL PEACE OFFICERS Some time ago it was my pleasure and privilege to appear in with Mr. Mark Ethridge, of the Courier-Journal, the debate being on the subject of the federal anti-lynch law. Mr. Ethridge is one of the most able men in the newspaper world and a two-fisted speaker. He had the affirmative of the subject, "Resolved that a federal anti-lynch bill is desirable." It was a no-decision debate, but Mr. Ethridge won by a majority in all precincts. Mr. Ethridge almost convinced me.

Nevertheless, I still think I was right. A federal anti-lynch bill would provoke lynchings; would drive them underground into a more sinister form, and would be a great incentive for the creation of vicious organizations.

Lynchings will be stopped when public interest is aroused against them and when peace officers of character and courage are the rule and not the exception.

All of this is but a preamble to some very strong evidence to support the argument that progress is being made THE TUSKEGEE REPORT According to its custom, Tuske-

THE TUSKEGEE REPORT According to its custom, the gee Institute in near-by Alabama, has made public its annual analysis of lynchings in the United States.

It is the most significant report in the long history of the reports. In 1935 there were 20 lynchings.

In 1936 there were but eight.

In 1937 the number again was eight.

By 1938 it was down to six.

Last year there were but three Florida had two lynchings, Mississip one. In no case was the crime of rape involved.

One of those lynched was a white man; the other two negroes. The offenses bringing about the lynchings were a murder, an altercation and the fatal injury of a boy who was run down by an

Two of those lynched were taken from officers of the law. One was removed from a jail, the other from the custody of officers.

THE BEST RECORD It has been the custom for those who annually introduce the anti-lynch bill in congress to point the finger of scorn at the south and declare that local peace officers cannot be depended upon to enforce the

While the majority of those who introduce and support the anti-lynch bills are insincere and playing brazen politics, it nevertheless was true there often was basis for their charges.

It is, therefore, most gratifying to note that the Tuskegee report reveals of the 18 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings, the south contributed 17 cases.

It is obvious that had the 17 attempts been successful, the south's record would have been disgraceful. This serves to etch more sharply the work of the peace officers.

By foresight, by ruse and by determined courage in the face of the mob, the peace officers in 17 instances prevented a blot on the records of southern justice. The character and the courage of southern law enforcement officers has grown. It has grown not through the threat of federal legislation but through an awakening public demand for such action. Lynchings will be eliminated by public opinion rather than by that of another. A determined sheriff who will kill rather than surrender his prisoner can cool off a mob quicker than any one factor. The mob invariably is a coward.

A federal law would but change the method of killing. It would make it secret. It would cause lynchings to arise from even more inadequate causes than provoked those of our past years. Bodies would be found in a ditch or field.

The record of 1939 may not be a real indication of the public's attitude. One revolting crime, one cowardly peace officer, can ruin the record in 1946. But every indication points toward the fact that human life and justice have higher standards of value—that education and not legislation is doing the job of eliminating One Ring in the Nose Wouldn't

Satisfy Us If Others Could Afford Ten

A small boy plays in the sand, happy in the sunshine, without a care or want. Life is perfect. But a second small boy appears with a cone of ice cream in his hand and hatefulness in his heart. He fills his mouth and rolls his eyes in ecstasy. "I've gotta ice cream cone and you ain't," he gloats. "Betcha wish you had one.

Gee, it's good. Don't you wish you was me?"
And the first small boy is filled with longing and envy and hate, and life is a misery and torment. Perhaps you couldn't be victimized so easily. Perhaps you

DeKalb Farmers Have Been Held Ineligible To Receive Payments.

The cases of 18 DeKalb county cotton farmers, declared ineligible to receive 1938 crop reduction payments last month by the state agriculture committee, will be appealed in Athens today by county mmitteemen.

The 18 seeking appeals are included in a group of 57 farms con-sidered overplanted by the state committee in 1938, in violation of AAA regulations limiting them to 70 per cent of the 1937 crop.

Representing the farmers, who are seeking their 1938 payments, will be Commissioner Scott Candler, County Agent Edward P. Mc-Gee, Candler C. Miller, county administrative assistant for AAA, and the county committee composed of S. D. Bryant, G. D. Goddard, and V. J. Kenerly. They will leave this morning to attend the state committee's regular monthly meeting.

Miller said yesterday the 18 farmers seeking a new hearing will base their argument on the contention that they were in-formed of crop allocations after cotton had been planted. Miller said the other county farmers declared ineligible had planted so much over allocation that an appeal for them seemed inadvisable.

Noted Finnish Painter Arrives For Visit to Atlanta Friends At East Lake Club

By Sally Forth.

DISTINGUISHED visitor in Atlanta is Juho Rissanen, one of Fin-A land's best' known contemporary artists, who is the guest of Mrs. John E. Mullin and her sister, Mrs. Philip D. Slocum, on St. Augustine The friendship between the artist and his Atlanta hostesses dates to the years soon after the turn of the century. When Mrs. Mullin was Florence E. Spurr she toured Europe with her mother and while sojourning in Florence, Italy, her portrait was painted by Artist Rissanen. It was not until three years ago when Mrs. Mullin visited Europe again that her acquaintance with the famous artist was renewed at a chance meeting at an art exhibit in Paris where he was south this year. Mr. Rissanen, driven by the war from his usual winter haunts in southern France, where he has painted for the past 25 years, will visit Florida and California to depict American scenes this winter. His interpretations of America, and especially of southern scenes, will be of particular interest. He works in Some of his windows were done tive building and for the Bank of

He is a member of the Beaux Arts Academy of Finland, the Beaux Arts Academy of Sweden, and of the Paris Salon d'Automne.

During his stay here Mr. Rissanen will be honored at a numincluding the Paul Seydels, the-Lewis Skidmores, the W. M. Smaws, Mrs. Farnsworth Drew, and members of the Viking Club.

ONE of Atlanta's loveliest belles will announce her betrothal Sunday to an equally popular Atlantan, the marriage of the young couple to take place in March. The bride-elect in question is a petite brunet and is noted for her gracious manner. She attended Washington Seminary and North Fulton High school, and completed her education at the University of Georgia, where she was one of the most popular memhers of the Chi Omega sorority. She has two sisters and one brother. After finishing her education she chose a professional career in preference to debut.

Though the handsome groom-elect is an only son, he has two sisters. He graduated from Druid Hills High school and attended the University of Georgia Evening College: At present he is associated in business with his father here. divulge more about the identities of the couple will make guessing far too easy.

TTRACTIVE Betty Schwinn A Baker is delighting her friends by remaining over this week in Atlanta. She motored down from Barrington, Ill., to attend the marriage of Adgate and Walker Hill, and to renew her friendship with Helen and Ryburn Clay. A perfect round of informal social affairs is being given as com-plimentary gestures to the Illi-

Brunet and magnetic Betty, dresses in faultless taste, goes in for farming on an extentive scale. She lives at Lazy Acres Farm, where an apple orchard is one of her agricultural achievements, and she raises lots and lots of piggy-wiggies on her hundredacre farm. Aside from her farm-ing interests, Betty takes time out to do exquisite needlepoint for herself and her close friends. The guest house on Lazy Acres Farm is a remodeled barn ne on an artistic scale, featurng nine-naneled walls and furnishings expressive of the re-strained taste of the visitor from Illinois. The main house is built of stucco like the guest house, and in this house dwell Betty and her only son, Ignaz Schwinn II, named for his maternal grandfather, Ignaz Schwinn, a prominent and highly esteemed Chicago citizen and well-known financier. Betty and her son, who is deep-interested in aeronautics, and builds model planes that are perfect in construction and detail, will motor to Miami to attend the air meet. At the conclusion of the event. Betty will visit her father in Phoenix, Ariz., and Ignaz will resume his studies at the Todd School in Woodstock, Ill.

Personal To Fat Girls

Now you can slim down your face and fig-are without strict dieting or back-breaking exercises. Just eat sensibly and take 4 Mar-mola Tablets a day, according to the di-mola Tablets a day, according to the directions.

Marmola Tablets have been sold to the public for more than thirty years. More than twenty million boxes have been distributed during that period.

Marmola is not intended as a cure-all for all ailments. This advertisement is intended only for fat persons who are normal and healthy otherwise and whose fatness is eaused by a reduction in the secretion from the thyroid gland (hypo-thyroidism) with accompanying subnormal metabolic rates. No other representation is made as to this treatment except under these conditions and according to the dosage as recommended.

We do not make any diagnosis as that is the function of your physician, who must be consulted for that purpose. The formula is included in every package. Start with Marmola today and win the slender lovely figure that is rightfully yours.

National Drop in Weight Proves That Slimness Is Healthy

Good Food, Rest Mean Beauty And Health

By Ida Jean Kain.

The trend is toward healthy slimness. For proof, we have the statistics garnered by one of the leading life insurance companies showing that since 1922 average weights for women have dropped three to five pounds. And it must be healthy, or the women wouldn't be eligible for insur-

This trend may be due partly to fashion. But it is due mostly to the fact that women are eating more intelligently than they ever have before. The average diet is increasingly higher in fruits, vegetables, milk and whole grains. These protective foods are beginning to replace many of the

Fine Food Flavors

By Sally Saver.

"What is sauce for the goose, is sauce for the gander" may be perfectly true and just (though I ask permission to doubt it) as a moral applied to cooking, though you and I have seen cooks smother every-thing smotherable in the same white sauce. Flavors of foods are enriched, made more interesting and appe-tizing or ruined with sauces and seasonings. Too much sauce and seasoning makes a food unrecognizable, therefore, such sea-soning is undesirable. Foods fit for consumption need no disguise, and skillful cooking does not attempt to disguise. Its purpose is to bring out the best there is in a food, to give piquancy and zest, and to add flavors and seasonings that combine well with other fla-vors being presented in the same The world's best chefs have at their command a whole array of sauces, spices and condiments and upon his skill and proficiency and upon his skill and profiteredy and artful use of these his reputation rests. The right sauce for the fish, steak, roast or chops; the seasoning for the vegetables to go with it—there must be enough blending and enough contrast for eye appeal and for the palate. TECH, CLEMSON STANDOUTS.

Southern teams, breaking even in the four major bowl games, did rather well on New Year's. Georgia Tech and standouts as Bo Johnston, games, did rather well on New Year's. Georgia Tech and Lieb, Lamar Murphy, Virlyn Clemson were the standouts, with Tennessee and Tulane bowing

This correspondent had picked every southern team and so winds up with a batting average of .500, which is no good in J. P. C. TROUNCES their youth, all-around ability and any league except baseball. And it's too good in baseball.

I was just thinking how close Clemson came to being one of the truly great teams of the country; they were plenty good, were Jess Neely's boys, but had they either tied or beaten Tulane-the score was 7-6-their victory over Boston College in the Cotton Bowl would have meant that, until proved otherwise, they are as good as the best.

What Clemson ought to do right how is to remain a solution of the adage "the bigger they are the people who think otherwise that Clemson College is one of the adage "the bigger they are the harder they fall," the J. P. C. basketball team beat a skyscraper.

Clemson, nationally, has suffered unjustly from lack of a build-up. Certainly, there are few better football teams any-straight victory. Had the Progresswhere, and the nice part about it all is that they're all corn-fed sives been able to sink free throws country hoys from around North and South Carolina.

Jess Neely has done a remarkable job of coaching. And now he is finding it difficult to get "name" schools on the Clemson schedule.

Not that the "name" schools are afraid of Clemson, but ed between Steve Browdy and whave the quaint idea that to lose to Clemson is disastrous Victor's Tom Pack. The 260-pound they have the quaint idea that to lose to Clemson is disastrous

"ALL-AMERICAN TO ME."

The boys have been giving lke Peel, stocky young member Pack in the second half, J. P. C. allowed the latter only two points of the Tennessee team, an old-fashioned going-over along the route from Pasadena to Knoxville, Tenn.

Usually when a southern team takes a licking in the Rose Bowl, the ride back home is as long as an ant eater's snout, but not this time. The boys realize they ran up against a barrel of dynamite, and they do not feel responsible for the charge going off in their face. After all, Southern Cal wasn't marked with any warning of high explosives. Duke played virtually the same team to a standstill in the 1939 game.

However, it seems that Ike Peel, whom the boys affectionately call "Baby Face," received a wire from the girl friend in Virgicia prior to the Rose Bowl game.

The wire, as related by Abe Shires, Vol tackle, read-"You may be a second-string player to Coach Neyland, but you are was set for Pack in the second an All-American to me.'

JOHN SMITH CO OUR INTENTIONS

CHEVROLET

We expect to make January the best one we have had in many years. We are going to offer unusual trades thruout the entire month on both New Chevrolet Cars and New Trucks. All we ask is that you see us before buying any low-priced car. CHEVROLET-try CHEVROLET and we believe you will buy CHEVROLET. We also have the most outstanding values in more than 115 Used Cars and Trucks, each one priced in plain figures on the windshield-no trick code prices to fool you on old car allowances. Our cars are honestly conditioned by our factorytrained mechanics, honestly priced and must be as represented. We handle our own notes-no red tape-pay your notes at office. We own our business, buildings, lots and shops. We expect to be here to serve you at the same old place in the same old way as we have for the past 71 years. A few listings: CHEVROLETS

2,912 Permits Issued During Year for Total Value of $10,007,831 Many Major Projects Included.

Value of building construction in Atlanta for 1939 established a 10-year record and was almost three times as much as the value of all construction in 1938, according to figures compiled yesterday by A. C. McDaniel, assistant to Building Inspector Charlie J.

A total of 2,912 permits were issued during the year for a total value of $10,007,831, as compared with 3,271 permits valued at $13,-212,611 for 1929 and 2,729 per-mits valued at $3,796,202 for 1938. 133 Permits Issued.

The 1939 figures contained the report for December, when 133 permits were issued for buildings
